New York University Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 321 pages. Have you wondered: Why women are more sympathetic than men toward O. J. Simpson Why women were no more supportive of the Equal Rights Amendment than men Why women are no more likely than men to support a female political candidate Why women are no more likely than men to embrace feminism--a movement by, about, and for women Why some women stay with men who abuse them Loving to Survive addresses just these issues and poses a surprising answer. Likening womens situation to that of hostages, Dee L. R. Graham and her co- authors argue that women bond with men and adopt mens perspective in an effort to escape the threat of mens violence against them. Dee Grahams announcement, in 1991, of her research on male-female bonding was immediately followed by a national firestorm of media interest. Her startling and provocative conclusion was covered in dozens of national newspapers and heatedly debated. In Loving to Survive, Graham provides us with a complete account of her remarkable insights into relationships between men and women. In 1973, three women and one man were held hostage in one of the largest banks in Stockholm by two ex-convicts. These two men threatened their lives, but also showed them kindness. Over the course of the long ordeal, the hostages came to identify with their captors, developing an emotional bond with them. They began to perceive the police, their prospective liberators, as their enemies, and their captors as their friends, as a source of security. This seemingly bizarre reaction to captivity, in which the hostages and captors mutually bond to one another, has been documented in other cases as well, and has become widely known as Stockholm Syndrome. The...
